Welcome to eMusic Theory for schools!

What is eMusic Theory Online?

As all music teachers know, as students progress through the Australian Music Examination Board practical exams it is necessary that they complete a theory component. Instrumental Teachers are often faced with the problem of trying to undertake this tuition as part of a practical lesson which is both difficult and time consuming. The only other alternative previously has been to send the student to private theory lessons, which can be cost prohibitive for the student/parent.

There is however a new solution! eMusic Theory delivers the AMEB syllabus and can be studied totally online! It teaches students through games, video tutorials, online lessons and practice tests that ensures they can pass their theory tests with confidence!

Theory Grades 1 to 3 are currently accessible online and the matching AMEB online exams are now available. Already over 100 students have availed themselves of this new convenient and efficient way to undertake AMEB theory exams. The developers of eMusic Theory are the sole developers and administrators appointed by the AMEB for these online exams which are accessible through the AMEB website. Exam results are available immediately after sitting the exam! No more anxious waiting for the postman!

Not only is eMusic Theory designed to prepare students for the new online AMEB testing but it also prepares them to be able to undertake the old style written exam by ensuring students know how to correctly write notation from scratch, as apposed to simply selecting the possible options on a computer screen.

The course is truly interactive! It teaches students by helping them understand music theory and learn in a fun and positive way. eMusic Theory online makes what is normally a tedious and boring task into a fun interactive learning experience!

Teachers can be linked to students enabling progress to be monitored throughout the material, with the ability to even view screen shots of the student's mistakes. At the end of each grade students can undertake sample exams which have an identical design to the new AMEB online exams, thus allowing teacher and student to truly ascertain the student's ability to pass the exam.

COST

Instrumental Music Australia has been appointed the sole education supplier of this new music theory course that follows the Australian Music Examination Board syllabus. The cost for one year's limited access to a single specified grades material on the website is normally $99. As the official school's reseller we are able to offer this as a special package for 10 students or more at a rate of $35 per student with unlimited access to all materials on the site as well as a free teacher account which enables the monitoring of students progress. These 'licenses' can be transferred to a different student anytime within the 12 month period.

The course is located at www.theory.com.au where you will find an array of sample material that can be perused from the homepage. For a more detailed perusal of the program please contact Instrumental Music Australia for your free trial account. As an AMEB course, eMusic Theory is the perfect addition for a musical education. It's the way of the future and with the development of Grades 4 and 5 expected to be online within 12 months its amazing value for money!

Now with AMEB ratification it is certainly apparent that this system of teaching the elementary levels of theory is potentially the way of the future for music teachers and students alike!
